BEFORE GETTING STARTED

ALTITUDE: Aspen is at 8000 feet in elevation! The higher you go in elevation, the less oxygen there is to breathe, which means your body has to work harder to get oxygen it needs to function. Symptoms of altitude sickness include headaches, nausea, loss of appetite and difficulty sleeping. Mild fatigue is normal, but if symptoms increase, your only remedy is to go to a lower elevation and you should seek medical help if the symptoms are severe.

- ✓ ACCLIMATE. Take it easy on your first day at Aspen/Snowmass and allow your body to adjust to the altitude before you enjoy a night out or a big day on the slopes.
- ✓ DRINK WATER. And we mean A LOT of water.
- ✓ REST. Allow your body time to catch up to you and replenish your oxygen levels.
- ✓ GET LOW. If you do start feeling altitude sickness coming on, return to lower elevation at the base of the mountain, call it a day, drive down to Carbondale.

ALCOHOL: Be aware that alcohol WILL hit you harder while you're at altitude. You should plan to take it easy at après and drink less than you otherwise would at home until you get your bearings. You'll thank yourself later!

In addition, make sure you are staying hydrated and drink plenty of water throughout the day and night. The mountains are a lot drier and you'll find yourself dehydrated much more quickly than at home. With alcohol in the mix, this problem can be compounded even more, so make a conscious effort to sneak water in on all your ski breaks.

SUNSCREEN & SUNGLASSES: Higher elevations put you closer to the sun which means higher risk for sunburn, even in winter. Colorado is lucky to have over 300 days of sunshine a year, so be sure to apply sunscreen before you head out to enjoy our bluebird days.

ASPEN MOUNTAIN

How we ski Aspen Mountain on a powder day

“Among Aspen’s four mountains, Aspen Mountain or Ajax is the crown jewel.”

This mountain is for intermediate and experts and offers the most straightforward, efficient, powder skiing. The Silver Queen is a high speed gondola climbing 3267 vertical feet to the top - right from downtown. Though smaller than Aspen Highlands and Snowmass, Aspen Mountain skis much larger than its legendary 673 skiable acres. The key is to traverse and work multiple trails into a single run and try to stay out of the gulch as long as possible. You will find plenty of challenging double black diamonds, steep fall line trees, sneaky traverses, open glades and gullies.

The locals choice for the first run of a powder day is “face to six.”

This means, ride the gondola to the top, then rip down to Bell Mountain and ski the face of Bell down to chair six. Ride the short double chair, known as F.I.S., up and exit right to ski the mine dumps, steep east facing Aspen Glades dropping into Spar Gulch. I recommend Perry’s or Last Dollar.

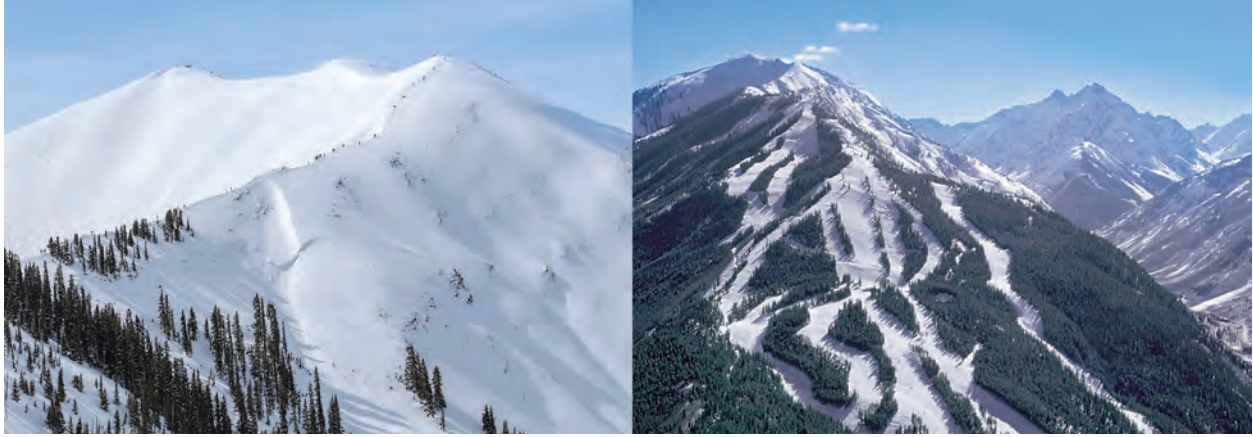

Take the gondola back to the top, ski east towards Independence Pass and pick one of the steep classics, Walsh’s, Hyrup’s, or Kristy’s. After the long traverse out, go right on past the Gents Ridge Lift and head out gentleman’s ridge under the experts only banner. Keep to the right, ski the ridge until you see the sign for Jackpot. A nice fall line shot through the trees or if it’s open enter the gate for bingo Glades, a really adventurous steep tree run.

Instead of continuing down little Nell to the gondola, consider traversing left on the cat walk to lift 1A, also known as the Shadow Mountain lift, the greatest double chair in North America. You can usually ski up and get right on the lift and back to the dumps or drop down to Bonnie’s for oatmeal pancakes.

• FREE SKI BUS • Aspen pick up is one block west, across Main Street in front of the Innsbruck. Runs every 15 minutes during peak hours.

The DOWNTOWNER is a FREE city ride service. Download the app and request your ride.

ASPEN HIGHLANDS

How we ski Highlands on a powder day

“Aspen Highlands is the locals secret mountain for uncrowded slopes, mid mountain groomers, steep long fall line glades of steeplechase or hiking the ridge to Highland bowl for the greatest run of your life.”

On big powder days when it can get busy, most locals will go straight up to steeplechase or Highland bowl, leaving the rest of the mountain available for more leisurely exploration. The lower half of the mountain accessible from the Thunderbowl Chair contains some great steeps and phenomenal terrain. In Steeplechase there are lots of little secret shots to be found, don't be afraid to get into the woods and poke around, try to stay out of the gullies which tend to get quite bumped up.

Of course the legendary highland bowl entails hiking and gains 800 vertical feet to the 12,392 foot Summit, and takes around 40 minutes, but the views of the surrounding elk Mountains are breathtaking. The north facing G zones, which range from wide open G8 to the tree covered Northwoods hold the deepest and most Wintry snow. But most people have “peak fever “and walk by a lot of less traveled terrain along the ridge on the way to the peak. The east facing B zones actually get some of the best wind deposited Snow, and can be amazing, it's steep, deep and a straight fall line for thousands of vertical feet. While the double blacks can get chewed up pretty quick by local powder hounds intermediate skier's have their pick of Highlands many groomers, where the sides of the runs can hold powder for hours. There's also nothing quite like skiing the intermediate runs under the cloud nine chair with new snow. Save the Olympic bowl area until the afternoon. Stop at the mid Mountain merry go round restaurant to refuel and at the end of the day make sure to hit the Highlands Alehouse for beer and pizza on a sunny deck at the base.

• FREE SKI BUS • Highlands pick up is on Main and First Street, right outside our door. Runs every 15 minutes during peak hours.

BUTTERMILK

How we like to ski Buttermilk

“Buttermilk is one mountain with two personalities.”

Easy-going uncrowded friendly terrain for beginners, intermediates and families and world renowned for freestyle riders and skiers who hit up the park, half pipe and big air jumps of the X Games.

Buttermilk is amazing because you can get from the bottom to the top in one chair ride. So when an overnight storm dumps fresh powder, hop on the bus right out in front of the lodge. Ride main Buttermilk's Summit Express lift and at the top turn directly to Tiehack for perfect powder cruising through intermediate or advanced runs. Easy to get lots of runs here when other mountains are busy.

After the X Games, Buttermilk opens the 22-foot superpipe and the last of the slopestyle jumps to the public. You can ski over (or likely around) the mega jumps that boost athletes 65 feet into the air. Buttermilk's crew also redistributes the big-air jump to skier's left of the superpipe, shaping it into jumps intended for up to 35 feet of air.

• FREE SKI BUS • Buttermilk pick up is right out our door on Main Street, by the newspaper boxes. Runs every 15 minutes during peak hours.

SNOWMASS

How we ride Snowmass on a powder day

"I never go there. It's somewhere past the roundabout. I'm sure glad we have it because it absorbs a tremendous amount of people."

Kidding aside, Snowmass is consistently ranked at the top as best ski resort. Perfectly pitched intermediate groomers, classic expert runs, and lesser known powder day gems. It takes time to explore Snowmass. It's the 3rd largest resort in North America, with 3,332 acres of terrain, 96 runs and 20 chairlifts and there is something for everyone.

The upper half of the mountain is the best place to be. Sheer Bliss chair will take you up to the Cirque and grant you access to blue, blacks, and extreme terrain. Take the Cirque Pomma up to 12,510 feet and ride down to one of the gates accessing the Cirque. AMF and Gowdy's are great runs, along with the Cirque Headwall when it has enough snow.

The High Alpine chair will take you to the Hanging Valley Wall and Glades. Take a short 5 min hike up to the Hanging Valley Wall and find amazing runs such as Wall 1 and 2, Frog Pond Glades and for a real challenge Upper and Lower Ladders.

On the opposite side of the mountain is the Elk Camp chair which takes you to the Burnt Mountain access. Hike five minutes up to Burnt Mountain and find the longest run at Snowmass, ironically named Longshot. Also on Burnt Mountain are 3 black runs for more challenging glades to ride. The best is Rio with glades, open space and lots of little drops to keep you entertained

• FREE SKI BUS •

Snowmass pick up is one block east on Main Street across from Paepcke Park. Runs every 15 minutes during peak hours.

WINTER UPHILL

ANDRE WILLE STAYS FIT TOURING ALL OVER OUR LOCAL MOUNTAINS

In the winter, designated uphill routes on all four ski areas for skinning or stabilizers will be marked with orange disks with an uphill symbol. Groomed Nordic trails like North Star Nature Preserve are also accessible, or you also can hike up Independence Pass, Maroon Creek Road, the Rio Grande Trail, or housewife hill up Smuggler Mountain Road.

ASPEN MOUNTAIN: All uphillers must be at the top of the mountain by 9:00 a.m., or make the ascent after 5:00 p.m. Uphilling is not allowed between 9:00 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

SNOWMASS & ASPEN HIGHLANDS: Uphilling at Snowmass and Aspen Highlands is allowed during operational hours 9:00 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. Dogs are prohibited.

BUTTERMILK: Uphilling is allowed all day, seven days a week on Main Buttermilk, Tiehack, and West Buttermilk up designated routes. The best designated route starts at the Tiehack parking lot.

*There are holiday restrictions on all mountains.

SPRING BACKCOUNTRY SKIING

SPRING BACKCOUNTRY SKIING ABOUNDS IN THE ELK MOUNTAINS WHEN CONDITIONS ARE STABLE

Uphill skiing is the new rage, and in the spring, the alpine ski touring in the Elk Mountains around Aspen and Marble Colorado is unsurpassed. The avalanche danger usually stabilizes somewhat in mid-April just about the time the lifts close. The freeze/thaw cycle begins and the snowpack in the surrounding mountains become a paradise where almost everything becomes ski-able if you are willing to get up very early and hike for it.

There are 7 fourteeners and countless 12 and 13 thousand foot peaks to skin up and ski down. Classic nearby ski tours include: Mt. Hayden, Mt. Sopris and Castle Peak. The photos through out the lodge hallways are all in the Elk Mountains. Around Memorial Day, Independence Pass opens and the skiing on the top is awesome. Blue Mountain, Mountain Boy and Fourth of July Bowl are incredible shots with short hikes and long descents to lower switchbacks on the road. Also, check out the classic couloir on 13,989' Grizzly Peak. Also around Memorial Day the road to the Maroon Bells opens providing access to Pyramid Peak, North and South Maroon and countless other real ski mountaineering objectives. Castle Creek Road is open year round for access to a plethora of peaks and backcountry huts. Aspen Expeditions is a great guide service and touring gear shop as well as the Ute Mountaineer.

If you like to skin, come stay with us for the corn harvest. Skiing usually last through mid June in the high mountains.
